

We're looking for a Mobility Consultant in Oslo, Norway

Do you want to make a real difference for people and organizations moving across borders? We're looking for a Mobility Consultant in Oslo to take full ownership of relocation cases – combining hands-on immigration work with coordination of destination services.

About the role

You will manage relocation cases end to end – from allocation to invoicing – ensuring delivery on time, on budget, and with high quality. You'll be the main point of contact for clients and assignees throughout their journey.

What you'll do

- Own and manage relocation cases end to end
- Deliver immigration services and coordinate with authorities
- Plan and coordinate destination services (home search, settling-in, registration), including on-site support when needed
- Build strong relationships with clients and assignees
- Manage case finances, suppliers, and invoicing
- Identify opportunities to add value through additional services
- Maintain accurate case documentation and reporting

Who you are

You have experience within relocation, global mobility, immigration, or a similar advisory/service environment and enjoy working closely with people while taking full ownership of your work.

You bring

- Experience from relocation, global mobility, immigration, or related services
- A solid understanding of immigration processes (Norwegian experience is a strong advantage)
- Strong coordination skills and ability to manage multiple stakeholders and complex cases
- A commercial mindset and confidence working with case finances, costs, and margins
- Excellent communication skills in English; Norwegian or another Nordic language is a plus

To thrive in this role, you are:

- Structured and detail-oriented, with a strong sense of ownership
- Service-minded and proactive in your communication
- Comfortable handling complex situations and managing expectations
- Able to work independently while collaborating effectively with others
- Focused on delivering high-quality service and building strong, trust-based relationships advisory support

Why Alfa Mobility?
